

Tactical Inform and Influence Activities Planner Course

150-9E-SI/ASIP4/950-ASIP4, Phase 2

WHAT IS TIIAPC? This course is designed to provide the requisite knowledge of Inform and Influence Activities (IIA) for use by non-Functional Area 30 (Information Operations) personnel at the tactical level that is necessary to facilitate commander's objectives in the information environment. Students will gain a working knowledge of IIA, the various information related capabilities (IRCs), IIA integration into the military decision making and targeting process, analysis of the informational environment, IIA execution, and assessments. The training demonstrates how these focus areas and disciplines are synchronized to achieve required effects in the information environment. Their knowledge will be exercised and validated during a culminating scenario-based exercise. During this operation, students will apply their knowledge of information operations at the battalion level and below. This course replaces the Tactical Information Operations Course (TIOC) as of 1 October 2014. Graduates of this course will be awarded the P4 Skill Identifier/Additional Skill Identifier (SI/ASI).

IS THERE A PREREQUISITE? There are two classes you must complete prior to coming to the TIIAPC. Both are self-paced through distance learning. The first is IIA 101, which can be satisfied by taking either NGB-AIS-IO101 or 150-2G-FA30 (DL). The second is the Tactical Inform and Influence Activities Planner Course Phase 1 (150-9E-SI/ASIP4/950-ASIP4), also known as IIA 102. It is facilitator-led distance learning. You may submit an application to the TIIAPC course as long as you have application pending for the prerequisite classes. You will not be allowed to attend the TIIAPC class unless you are a graduate of both prerequisites.
